

Cuna de Reyes

D.O. Rioja Alta

Spain

From the sun, the rain, and the earth...from the vines and the grapes...from the warmth of working hands and effort; our wines are born.

About Cuna de Reyes

Our winery was founded in 1999 in the town of Nájera (La Rioja), also known as the “King’s Court”. Paying homage to this noble town, our winery was named Cuna de Reyes, or, “Birth place of kings”. Our family traditions and love for the earth and its most precious asset – the wine- come from our ancestors. We honor our heritage and the history of Rioja by continuing to make high quality wine with the spirit of those who worked the land before us.

Meet Our Winemakers Alfredo Ciria

Alfredo Ciria oversees almost everything at Cuna de Reyes. As a wine maker, Alfredo controls every aspect from fermentation temperature to bottle and label design. As a grape grower, he loves to spend his time in the field, listening to heavy metal music on his tractor. Wine making runs deep within his family roots, with Alfredo’s grandfather being a lifelong farmer and winemaker. When he is not showing visitors around the vineyard or blending wine, Alfredo loves to travel and go to the cinema with his wife and children.

Regional Info

The Rioja wine region is in northern Spain, and encompasses both sides of the River Ebro. Rioja Alta (where Cuna de Reyes is located) has soils that are mostly composed of calcareous (lime/chalk) clay, and has an oceanic climate due to its proximity to the Atlantic Ocean. Cuna de Reyes’ vineyards are of varying elevations and produce wines with exceptional structure and high acidity.
